

Course structure of Nepali language and literature of B. A. Honours and programme under NBU

The B.A. Honours program in Nepali language and literature at the University of North Bengal (NBU) is structured to provide a comprehensive understanding of the Nepali language, its literature, and related cultural aspects. Here's an overview of the course structure:

Course Components

Core Courses (CC):

These are mandatory courses that cover essential topics in Nepali language and literature.

Typically, there are 14 core courses spread across six semesters.

Elective Courses:

Discipline-Specific Electives (DSE): These are advanced courses that students can choose based on their interest in specific areas of Nepali literature.

Generic Electives (GE): These courses allow students to explore subjects outside their main discipline, fostering a broader academic perspective.

Skill Enhancement Courses (SEC):

These courses focus on enhancing specific skills related to the study of Nepali, such as translation, creative writing, or oral traditions.

Ability Enhancement Compulsory Courses (AECC):

These include courses like Environmental Science and English or Modern Indian Language (MIL) that are compulsory for all students.

Semester-wise Breakdown

Semester I & II:

Introduction to Nepali language and basic literature.
Core courses on the history and evolution of Nepali literature.
AECC courses in Environmental Science and English/MIL.

Semester III & IV:

Intermediate courses focusing on prose, poetry, and drama.
Introduction to literary criticism and theoretical frameworks.
SEC courses to develop practical skills.

Semester V & VI:

Advanced topics in Nepali literature, including contemporary and classical works.
Research methodology and critical analysis.
Elective courses tailored to the student's area of interest within Nepali literature.

Marks Distribution and Credits

Each core and elective course typically carries a specific number of credits, usually between 4 to 6.

Evaluation involves a combination of internal assessments and end-semester examinations.

The total credit requirement for the B.A. Honours degree is generally around 140 credits.

For detailed syllabus and specific courses offered, you can refer to the official syllabus document provided by NBU (University of North Bengal).

This structure ensures that students receive a balanced education in Nepali language and literature, preparing them for various academic and professional opportunities in this field.